

Identification Numbers at UC Riverside

(Information for new Undergraduate EAP Reciprocity Students)

There are several numbers that it will be important for you to retain and use when interacting with UCR services on-line. It may be a bit confusing since some UCR offices use different names for the same numbers! We hope that this will be a helpful guide to navigating the UCR system.

AppID

The Application ID is assigned to you when you submit your application for undergraduate admission. View a sample undergraduate application acknowledgement letter

Students received this letter by mail. If you not longer have your undergraduate application acknowledgement letter, don't worry: your application ID was also included in the UCR acceptance letter that was mailed with your I-20 visa document.

You will use this number, along with your date of birth, to create your MyUCR account at <http://www.my.ucr.edu> You will be asked to create a user name and password. Write these items as you will need to refer to them later.

Once you are admitted to UCR, you will use the user name and password that you created to log into MyUCR. Once you log into Murk, you will see a list of important ID' s under the My ID's section of your MyUCR account.

NetID

(also know as the "Student account username"; not the same as the Student ID)

The NetID is assigned to you after you are admitted.

PermPIN

(also known as the PIN)

The PermPIN is assigned to you after you are admitted. Remember that the Password, PIN and PermPIN are the same number. Offices will be referring to it in different ways (!) and you will be required to use this number along with the NetID, "Student account username" or Student ID depending on the UCR service or system you are accessing (see below).

Student ID

(not the same as the NetID)

The Student ID is assigned to you after you are admitted. You will need the Student ID along with the PIN (also called the PermPIN or Password) to apply for housing on-line and to access other services. This number will be communicated to you by UCR or by UOEAP.

New Student Guide to Computing (<http://cnc.ucr.edu/iguide>)

Every UCR student is automatically assigned a student account which provides access to the computing services provided by C&C, including the computer labs, e-mail, Blackboard, the wireless network, and many other services. To start using these services you will need your student account username (NetID), your Permanent PIN, and your Student ID Number.

The New Student Guide to Computing will tell you more about the services that will be available to you once you enroll in classes, and which UCR identification numbers are required to use them.
